

Fresh Fashion

OCTOBER • 2011

Like

Share

By: Michelle Natalia Diaz

Images by: Chris Parsons

0 COMMENTS

Archives

2011

2010

NYFW spring/summer 2012

Marc Alary was on hand to discuss a collaboration he did with Natacha Langerman, a natural color diamonds dealer, one of the very few females within that role. Marc Alary for Natacha Langerman, began their collective quest about a year ago. Natacha Langerman wanted to work with an artist who would get inspired by her amazing natural color diamonds collection, and would create jewels to emphasize the many color variations that can be found in fancy diamonds. Marc Alary was given creative freedom to craft a very focused collection. Alary's inspiration comes mostly from art and nature hence the influence of from the painting "Sunflowers" by Van Gogh. One sunflower ring quickly captured my attention with 22 carat yellow gold, black Rhodium, the stones are pave set in a luxurious array of yellow, olive, champagne, cognac, and white diamonds. The solitaire ring incorporated chocolate diamonds in an intricate 22 carat yellow gold setting.

